Look out for the Medersa Bou Inania, one of the city's coolest buildings, recently restored and now open to visitors. Check out the exquisite carvings and tile work at the Medersa el Attarine near the spice and perfume market. You'll also visit the famous tannery and its dye pits and a ceramic factory where you can see potters working in the traditional way.

Stop needed at the Mausoleum of Moulay Ismail was for a long time the only mosque that non-Muslims could visit in Morocco. It then exits through the famous Bab Mansour El on the vast square Hedim. On the other side of the square, the Museum of Moroccan Art "Dar Jamai" offers a wide variety of handcrafts.
